

A WEEK OF CONNECTION AND MOMENTUM: DALLAS & MIAMI INVESTOR EVENTS

What an incredible week for the Next Legacy Group team.

From our time at the Investor Retreat in Dallas, Texas to the Bring Your Deal event in Miami, Florida, we had the privilege of connecting with some of the most forward-thinking professionals in the real estate investing community.

These gatherings reminded us why collaboration matters — to learn, to grow and to bring those lessons back to the work we do every day for our community and partners.

In Dallas...

Conversations centered around emerging opportunities in multifamily housing, private lending, and alternative investments. The sessions encouraged thoughtful dialogue on market trends, strategic positioning and the evolving landscape of real estate.

In Miami...

We presented one of our upcoming multifamily projects. A showcase of our focus on steady growth, strong fundamentals and long-term value. The feedback and recognition we received from fellow professionals were both humbling and energizing, reinforcing the importance of relationships built on trust and performance.

We met incredible people fund managers, operators and investors. All driven by a shared vision: building lasting impact through smart, purpose-driven investing.

At Next Legacy Group, we believe that every conversation and connection strengthens how we serve. The insights we gained this week will help us continue improving how we evaluate opportunities, manage operations, and communicate with those who trust us to guide them in their wealth-building journey.

Stay tuned — we'll soon share more about our upcoming projects and insights from the field.
